WOMEN'S STUDIES PROGRAM

The Women's Studies program promotes the academic dimension of the Marian College mission by offering a program that enables students to gain a greater knowledge of and an increasing insight into the varied and changing roles of women in society and culture. In addition, the interdisciplinary nature of the program helps students recognize and understand the interrelatedness of a variety of disciplines, including communication, history, literature, philosophy, psychology, art, sociology, social work and theology. In seeking to fulfill the spiritual mission of Marian College, the Women's Studies program promotes a more inclusive and integrated view of society by offering students a comprehensive view of women in history and in the world today. The goals of the Women's Studies program are accomplished through a minor in Women's Studies designed to complement the student's major program and to provide a coherent perspective on the various aspects of this discipline. In order to extend the availability of these courses, they will be offered for both undergraduate credit and continuing education units.
