

GRADUATE PROGRAM Master of Science (MS) and Graduate Certificate

Thanatology ONLINE

Inspired to learn

Marian's Thanatology Program is designed to prepare individuals for employment in organizations that focus on the delivery of care for individuals and families confronting end-of-life healthcare and subsequent bereavement issues, and/or to prepare individuals for employment in organizations that specialize in suicide prevention, intervention, and postvention.

A hallmark of the thanatology program is an accomplished faculty of nationally recognized experts. Our faculty are leaders in the field, regularly publish in significant journals and trade books, are invited to speak at national conferences, and bring years of experience working in professional settings. You'll benefit from their personalized instruction and guidance, and be positioned to form connections with hospitals, hospices, nonprofit organizations and other employers.

Inspired to lead

The program combines rigorous study across the spectrum of end-of-life studies with content in palliative and hospice care, ethics, spirituality and religion, suicide, suicide prevention, unnatural death, end-of-life decision-making, communication with service providers and families, program development and assessment, diversity, death education, and a core curriculum grounded in thanatology theory and practice.

Graduates of the program find employment through a variety of areas, including:

- Churches
- Funeral homes
- Hospices
- Hospitals
- Non-profit organizations
